

Society

By EDNA MAE DIX

The beautiful colors of autumn played an important part in the wedding yesterday of Ginny Twining and Ted Gardner. 'Twas one of the loveliest of the season.

Blonde Ginny looked every bit the radiant bride in her glowing gown of pale gold imported French silk faille. Her sister, Martha Alice, wore olive green imported French silk paper taffeta as the honor attendant, and the five bridesmaids were dressed in orange.

All of the gowns were designed by Mrs. Ira (Suzi Wertman) Spector of Flushing, N.Y. Suzi, daughter of the Noel P. Wertmans of Allentown, is a freelance artist in New York City and she and Ginny have been friends since kindergarten days at Wright School.

Many, many out-of-town guests and relatives from near and far states were here for the nuptials. The minister who performed the ceremony, the Rev. Lloyd Saatjian of Long Beach, Calif., was a fraternity brother of Ted's at the University of Southern California.

On Friday night, the bridegroom's parents, the Theodore R. Gardners, entertained at the traditional rehearsal dinner in the Lehigh Valley Club.

The bride club gang which traveled to Bermuda for a two-week holiday is back home. The six couples stayed at the "Fair Winds" overlooking the ocean with the third fairway of the beautiful Mid-Ocean Country Club at their "back door."

Making the trip were Tom and Marge Bogert, Lee and Betty Everett, Frank and Betty Eby, Bob and Eva Sheesley, Don and Gloria Klotz and Ray and Flo Lutz.

Dr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Sadler attended Parson's Weekend at Amherst last weekend. Their sons, Blair and Fred, are juniors there.

Among the speakers at the semi-annual event were former French premier, Pierre Mendes-France, and 80-year-old Robert Frost, Simpson lecturer in literature. Poet Frost has been connected with Amherst since 1916.

Last weekend turned into old home week for former Allentownians Dave and Isabel Williams of

Continued on Page 30, Col. 1

Virginia L. Twining Wed To Theodore Gardner II

The wedding of Virginia Louise Twining, daughter of Mrs. John C. Ferneding of Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., and Atty. Eugene K. Twining of Allentown, to Theodore Roosevelt Gardner II, son of Atty. and Mrs. Theodore R. Gardner, 401 N. 2nd St., Emmaus, took place yesterday afternoon in the Muhlenberg College Chapel.

Performing the ceremony was the Rev. Lloyd Saatjian of Long Beach, Calif.

Escorted by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Martha Alice Twining of Rancho Santa Fe, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Audrey Ann Gardner, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Richard D. Knorr of Bethlehem, Alice Ann Miller of Allentown, Mrs. Roger Webb of Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Ira Spector of Flushing, N. Y.

James K. Gardner attended his brother as best man. Ushering guests were Stephen C. Twining and Michael C. Twining, brothers of the bride, Dr. Carl

Continued on Page 31

Gracious Pat Nixon Exudes Charm

By SYLVIA FENSTERMACHER

It's difficult to believe, even when it's happening to you. There you are, sitting in a hotel room, and Pat Nixon is pouring you a cup of coffee.

"Would you like a little cream in this?" she smiled. She poured herself a cup, with only a bit of cream, and then sat down to chat.

Chat has to be the word for it. There were no hesitant monosyllables in answer to questions . . . no stilted silences in answer to others.

No Sign of Weariness
After the five-mile route from the A-B-E Airport, the tumultuous, confettied reception at the Americus on top of a day jammed with crowds, plane flights and motorcades, there was the wife of the vice president of the United States talking without a trace of weariness, and looking unbelievably fresh.

Still wearing the smart cherry red suit she appeared in on her arrival, she explained that she would not have time to change before last night's rally at Muhlenberg Memorial Hall.

"In fact, I've had this on since I left New York this morning. I usually travel light, and rewear clothes quite often. I didn't bring a change of clothes to Allentown since we're not staying overnight."

"Usually, when we're leaving for a new week of tours, I take three suits and a dress. I change and rewear them, and accessorize them with hats and scarfs to change their appearance."

Sunday in Washington
As always at the end of a busy campaign week, Mrs. Nixon is happy for Saturday night because it means Sunday in Washington with their two daughters, Trish and Julie. "Dick hasn't seen the girls in four weeks now. As you know, we don't plan any campaigning on Sunday, so when we're out of town I generally leave the party to spend Sunday with them. I think it's terribly important. They're really growing up. Trish is 14 now, a freshman in high school, and Julie is 12."

As a reporter, you know it's rude to be talking with a person, with your mind wandering ahead, to the moment of truth when you must transmit your impressions to paper. What can you write that hasn't been written before?

Interviews have labeled her always composed, always gracious. She is.

Reporters have said that Pat Nixon is always immaculate in appearance, with never a smudge on her face or a hair out of place. This, also, is true.

They have said that no matter how hectic the schedule, how boisterous are the crowds in their enthusiasm, the smile never leaves her face, her brow never furrows.

In short, in their attempt to paint her as the "too perfect" wife of a presidential candidate, they have forgotten one thing . . . her warmth.

Thrilling Debate
Friday night's debate, Mrs. Nixon thought, was Continued on Page 39

It is difficult to believe you are talking to a world famous woman who is always in the spotlight because she is so natural. "Haven't the crowds been tremendous?" she said. "They've been this way all day long except on the freeway. I've been to this area before, but it was special today . . . the countryside was so pretty, and it was a Saturday, when people, and not just party people, were home and on the streets and at crossroads. You really gave us quite a reception here!"

This, she said, is what keeps her and the vice president going. Asked how she got by on 30 little sleep she said, "It's the people who stimulate us. I really believe we get our strength from them. I know it means a lot to Dick to meet these people who believe as we do that the cause is great, especially now at the end of this campaign."

MRS. NIXON AND REPORTER — Last night in the Americus Hotel Mrs. Richard Nixon spent a half hour chatting with Sylvia Fenstermacher of the Call-Chronicle staff.

Bethlehem Social Scene

By KAY RAYWICK

Saucun Valley Country Club yesterday afternoon was the setting for a tea dance — a first for the club.

The dance climaxed the exciting Lehigh-Rutgers game. Matt Gillespie and his orchestra played from 5 until 8.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard Smullin are in Honolulu attending the Pan-Pacific Dental convention.

They left last Saturday via jet to the West Coast, boarding a boat in California for Honolulu.

It's a small world, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Gilchrist must agree. They came back from Europe last Saturday after a five-week trip there.

While in Paris, they went to the opera house Faust and bumped into Zella and Bob Young of Saucun Valley.

While in Vienna, they took a bus tour which, at one point, found them on the steps of the city's opera house. And there they met Dick Strouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Strouse, who is touring the continent with a couple of friends after completing a military stint.

Sara Fegley is basking in Florida's sunshine. She's visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Army and Peg Droz and their four offspring, Darragh, Diane, Debra and Peggy, in Miami. She'll be gone two weeks.

unveiled by the YWCA on Thursday.

With the accent on its new youth center, the "Y" women have selected a theme of the life of a girl—"From carriage to marriage."

An appropriate touch will be a life-sized mannequin dressed in bridal costume which will dominate the center of the gymnasium, where the bazaar will be held. It will be a fun-packed day beginning at 10 a.m. and winding up at 8. Mrs. Ernest H. Dimler heads the hard-working committee which includes Mrs. Sidney Laudenslayer and Mrs. Elwood Nagle as staging chairmen; Mrs. R. W. Geist, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas

Richardson, properties; Mrs. F. F. Mellicke, luncheon; Mrs. F. E. Weiland, dinner; Mrs. A. F. Schaeffer, Mrs. Glover Rice and Mrs. H. Scott Ashton, decorations, and Mrs. George R. Jenkins, publicity.

Featured will be the many attractive booths, all carrying through the nursery - to - marriage theme.

Booths to be featured are nursery, teen-time, Cupid's corner, a rose-covered cottage, holiday corner cupboard, pantry to party, home magic, heritage shop, mother's kitchen and gay greetings. One of the extra special features will be foreign dolls.

Luncheon will be served in the cafeteria from 11 till 2, and a Swiss steak dinner will be on the 5 till 7 menu. Dinner will be served in the main auditorium.

Baby Susan Papa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Papa, was baptized last Sunday in the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Charlottesville Va. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Brown, were there for the occasion. The Browns spent a long weekend with their son-in-law and daughter.

The baby's aunt, Eleanor, who's assistant director of the student center at Douglass College in New Brunswick, N. J., joined the family group for the weekend.

Sophomore girls at Moravian Seminary tripped the light fantastic last week of Mead

Richardson, properties; Mrs. F. F. Mellicke, luncheon; Mrs. F. E. Weiland, dinner; Mrs. A. F. Schaeffer, Mrs. Glover Rice and Mrs. H. Scott Ashton, decorations, and Mrs. George R. Jenkins, publicity.

Featured will be the many attractive booths, all carrying through the nursery - to - marriage theme.

Booths to be featured are nursery, teen-time, Cupid's corner, a rose-covered cottage, holiday corner cupboard, pantry to party, home magic, heritage shop, mother's kitchen and gay greetings. One of the extra special features will be foreign dolls.

Luncheon will be served in the cafeteria from 11 till 2, and a Swiss steak dinner will be on the 5 till 7 menu. Dinner will be served in the main auditorium.

Baby Susan Papa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Papa, was baptized last Sunday in the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Charlottesville Va. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Brown, were there for the occasion. The Browns spent a long weekend with their son-in-law and daughter.

The baby's aunt, Eleanor, who's assistant director of the student center at Douglass College in New Brunswick, N. J., joined the family group for the weekend.

Sophomore girls at Moravian Seminary tripped the light fantastic last week of Mead

Elizabeth Reynolds Bride Of Richard W. Metzger

The White Church on the Hill, Trucksville, was the setting yesterday for the wedding of Elizabeth Anne Reynolds, daughter of Mrs. George J. Reynolds Jr. and the late Mr. Reynolds of Trucksville, to Richard Warren Metzger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Metzger, 119 N. Madison St., Allentown.

Officiating were the Rev. Arthur Mayo and the Rev. Robert Webster. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Ehrman S. Reynolds of Stamford, Conn.

Mrs. G. Wesley Sell of Allentown served as matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Stephan Wadium and Hilda Flück, both of Allentown. Robert E. Metzger of Parma, Ohio, was best man for his brother. Ushering guests were John F. Metzger of Fort Wayne, Ind., another brother, and Kenneth W. Bechtel of Lancaster.

After receiving guests in the church social rooms, the newlyweds departed on a trip to New

Continued on Page 31

Easton Social Scene

By ELEANOR STECKEL

Betsy Catlin and her sons, Robert and John, will return this week to their home in East Granby, Conn., after a visit here with Betsy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Winters. Husband, Jack Catlin, spent last weekend here and has returned to gather them up for the return trip.

Last evening a cocktail-party was given by Shirley and Jim Liebermann at their home, in honor of Betty and Russell Wood, of Ear Hills, N. J., newlyweds who have just returned from their honeymoon.

Houseguests of Dorothy and Paul Potler, last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams and their two daughters, Mary and Ann, of Lancaster.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ostrander, in conjunction with Miss Elizabeth Pearson, will hold a card party at her home tomorrow night for the benefit of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

After a three-week visit here with her daughter-in-law and son, Jane and John Hambrook, Mrs. A. J. Hambrook has returned to Troy, N. Y. She was accompanied home by J. and J., who weekended with John's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Hambrook, of Schenectady, N. Y.

