Offensive Tackle Branden Albert

(On importance of stretch plays) – “I think that is one of the most important things when you are running outside zone, they’ve got to be the one to influence it. If you don’t get the right reach on that particular person you are going against, you kind of mess up the play. So the tackle has got to be the one that starts off the play and ends it. It trickles down to everybody and the running backs will do their job.

(On if there is a chance his chemistry with the left guard is impacted with multiple players competing for the starting job at that position) – “No. Whoever will play next to me, whoever it is, I’m going to help those guys come along the best way. We are going to work together. Like I said from day one, I’m here to help. I’m not here to be a savior. I’m here to help this team. Whoever plays left guard, we are going to work together. We are going to get it done as offensive linemen, as an offense and as a team.”

(On how challenging it is for the offensive line to get cohesion together and how much work they have left to achieve that) – “We’ve got a lot of work. We’ve got some young guys. I’m still learning. I tell people I’m not perfect. I’m trying to figure out stuff, so the more I figure it out the more I can help Mr. (Ja’Wuan) James and all of the other young guys.”

(On how he feels about OTAs starting and if there is a little more level of excitement) – “I (was) always excited to start today because I’m on a new team and learn new things in a new environment. I had to get used to certain things here as the beginning how we do things around here. But it’s an adjustment. My head was spinning around a little bit, but the more I come out here the more I start learning my way around, the more I can fit in.”
